

Hello everyone,

Please can you join with us and support Anti-Bullying Week 2020 which is due to start in 2 weeks time on 16th Nov 2020.

There's lots of great advice and support available from various organisations. I've attached a selection of organisations that may give you some ideas around how you can get involved and support your students, their families and your staff.

ANTI-BULLYING ALLIANCE

On their site that have a section for school resources. These include:-

- Primary School Pack
- Secondary School Pack
- Odd Socks Day School Pack & Competitions
- Sky Academy Resource for secondary schools
- Information for parents and carers

NSPCC

The NSPCC website has lots of information on these topics, including advice for children and parents and carers in relation to how to talk about the subject with young people, how to report bullying on social media and through online gaming, how to report bullying videos that have been shared online and information re hate crime.

THE CYBER HELPLINE

The Cyber Helpline have various guides attached to offer advice in relation to Online harassment, cyberstalking, Outing, Fake profiles, fraping, catfishing, online grooming, inappropriate content, revenge porn amongst others topics.

THE ALICE RUGGLES TRUST

The Alice Ruggles Trust website has teaching and learning resources attached to raise awareness among young people of the dangers of coercive control and stalking. This includes quality assured teaching material and lesson plans aimed at key stage 4 (14-16 year olds). This focuses on identifying unhealthy relationships and on managing unwanted attention. The site also has lots of other relevant information.

GMP CYBER CRIME ONLINE PRESENTATIONS

Due to current restrictions I have also started doing online presentations for students and teachers. The content includes advice in relation to keeping yourself safe online and information on cyber bullying and stalking, the dangers of Cyber-crime, the Computer Misuse Act 1990 and to positively divert young people towards exciting career opportunities.
